

The party never stops

June 17, 1986

To Who it may concern

Peter J. Starr and the Starr Group designed the sophisticated sound and video systems for Studio 54. They did a fantastic job from designs through installation and working with our world famous DJs and performers. Creating technical systems for the largest nightclub in the world is no small task. Mr. Starr's designs were completely perfect for the size of the space and the intended usage. The actual installation was performed by his professional, courteous & experienced staff & he personally supervised the install.

Studio 54 is know as the party that never stops, and neither does our sound, lighting or video systems. These systems are pushed to their limits seven days a week for crowds in excess of three thousand. The systems provided by Mr. Starr are on the cutting edge of new technology & keep the party going night after night. They installed lots of their own custom built Coliseum Galileo G-Force Sub-Mass speakers, and they are incredible! But if you really want the best recommendation of all, please stop by Studio anytime & experience this force of nature captured inside our walls

Additionally, Mr. Starr is easy to work with & delivered everything he promised and more. It is with great pleasure that we are able to highly recommend him to anyone needing his services.
